Biographical Note

John Henry Campbell, lawyer and Associate Justice of the Supreme Court of Arizona, was born in Tuscola, Illinois, on September 19, 1868, the son of William J. and Milla Smith Campbell. In 1887, he went to Washington D.C., where he worked as a clerk in the U.S. Treasury Department from seven years. During this time, Campbell studied law at Columbian University receiving his LL.B. in 1891 and his LL.M. in 1892. He was admitted to the bar of the District of Columbia in 1892. In 1894, he was transferred from the Treasury Department to the Department of Justice, where he became attorney in charge of pardons and a member of the Department's examining board.

Campbell moved to Tucson in 1901 and formed a law partnership with Roscoe Dale. From 1902 to 1905, he served as Assistant U.S. Attorney from Arizona and practiced law with U.S. District Attorney for Arizona Frederick Solomon Nave (1873-1912). In March 1905, Campbell was appointed an associate justice of the Supreme Court of Arizona and of the U.S. district and county courts. One of the last associate justices under the territorial government, Campbell held this position until 1912, when Arizona became a state.

Campbell resumed his private law practice in Tucson in 1912 when he formed a partnership with Samuel L. Kingan. They were joined by Archie R. Connor in 1920, and by George R. Darnell in 1924. Campbell represented clients with cattle, mining, irrigation and real estate interests in Southern Arizona. Among his most notable cases were: title litigation to the northern half of the Baca Float No. 3, and irrigation rights of the Casa Grande Valley Water Users Association.

One of the more prominent lawsuits in which Campbell appeared as legal counsel was the contested Arizona gubernatorial election of 1916 (Hunt v. Campbell, 1917). Campbell represented former governor Thomas E. Campbell against W.P. Hunt and won the case in Maricopa County Superior Court. The decision was later reversed in the Supreme Court of the State of Arizona, and Hunt was seated.

Campbell was active in Arizona politics, serving as a Republican Presidential elector in 1924; in education, where he was a Regent of the University of Arizona (1891-1926); and in war organization work during World War I.

Campbell was married to Lena Estelle Freet (1869-1910) on April 15, 1890. They had three children: William Riggs Campbell (1891-1956), Helen Campbell Land (1894-1987), and Ruth Campbell Day (1898-). Lena died on October 17, 1910. On March 30, 1916, Campbell married Elise Wheaton Nave, widow of his former law partner, Frederick S. Nave. His stepson from this marriage, Frederick Gill Nave (1903-), practiced law with Campbell in the law firm of Campbell and Connor (organized in 1926 after the dissolution of Kingan, Campbell, Connor and Darnell).

John Henry Campbell died in Loma Linda, California, on June 10, 1928.

Scope and Content Note

The collection of the papers of John Henry Campbell consists of twelve boxes of manuscript material arranged in six subgroups: (1) Correspondence, 1910-1928; (2) Legal Documents, 1733, 1789, 1801-1928; (3) Financial Records, 1903-1926; (4) Certificates, 1903-1924; (5) Printed Materials, 1912-1925; (6) Miscellany, 1925-1927 and undated materials.

The collection relates primarily to John Henry Campbell's private law practice from 1912 to 1928. The bulk of the collection consists of business correspondence, legal documents, and clients; case files involving mining, lands, cattle, and irrigation. The collection also includes personal correspondence; financial statements from Campbell's law firms; personal tax records and receipts; stock certificates and civic recognitions; a small amount of printed materials, including a biographical sketch and newspaper clippings related to Campbell's law career; and miscellaneous legal research notes. The collection is particularly valuable for the correspondence and legal documents regarding the Campbell-Hunt election dispute, the Baca Float Spanish Land Grant, the Casa Grande Valley Water Users Association, the Chamizal land dispute statements, and material relating to the Otero and Zepeda families.

Subgroup One, Correspondence, 1910-1928, consists of two series.

Series One, Business Correspondence, 1912-1928, consists of correspondence relating to Campbell's law practice, political participation, stock investments, and affiliations with the Tucson Chamber of Commerce, the American Bar Association, the University of Arizona Board of Regents, the Selective Service Board, the Pima County Republican Precinct Committee, and the Republican State Central Committee. Incoming correspondence is arranged alphabetically by correspondent and includes such notable Arizonans as Henry Ashurst, Thomas E. Campbell, H.S. Corbett, Sharlot M. Hall, Carl Hayden, George W.P. Hunt, Sidney P. Osborne, and William H. Sawtelle. Outgoing correspondence is arranged chronologically and often references both the incoming correspondence and the legal documents. Much of the clients' correspondence deals with topics of claims collections, divorce counseling, land titles, mining activities, stock and loan transactions, requests for general legal advice, and specific litigation suits and depositions.

Series Two, Personal Correspondence, 1910-1928, consists of correspondence with family, friends, and associates; recommendations for military men, employees, and students; and correspondence relating to memberships in various clubs and organizations. Topics include: the gubernatorial election of 1916, health and school problems of the Campbell children, and personal news from Campbell's business associates. Folder 35 contains correspondence, press releases, certificates, and minutes which document Campbell's position as Arizona State Director of Four Minute Men, a World-War I national organization of speakers whose task was to present and discuss war-related issues at public gatherings in local theatres in order to inform, inspire, and arouse Americans to aid in the war effort. Folder 36 encompasses correspondence and miscellaneous reports, programs, and printed materials pertaining to the Knights of Pythias organization, activities, and war relief fund drive. Campbell served as Supreme Representative to the national Knights of Pythias.

Subgroup Two, Legal Documents, 1733, 1789, 1801-1928, consists of 16 series comprised of Campbell's legal case files and various types of documents drafted by Campbell's law firm. The bulk of the subgroup relates to specific litigation and individual business firms for which Campbell acted as legal counsel.

Series Three, Affidavits, 1912-1928, consists of fourteen affidavits and related correspondence concerning business, legal, and real estate topics.

Series Four, Agreements, 1907-1928, contains thirty-four agreements, many of which pertain to mining claims, property transactions, cattle, and water rights.

Series Five, Bills of Sale, 1913-1918, consists of nine copies of bills of sale relating to businesses and cattle. The business sales include a pool hall, a barbershop, a woolen mill, and a hotel.

Series Six, Bonds, 1915-1921, contains three bonds, including Campbell's bond to the State of Arizona upon his appointment as University of Arizona regent.

Series Seven, Chamizal Statements, 1733, 1789, 1801-1907, consists of 189 documents, including copies of land deeds, powers of attorney, abstracts of title, bills of sales, depositions, and other legal documents relating to a suit over land ownership in the disputed El Chamizal district on the United States-Mexico border in El Paso, Texas. Many of the documents are written in Spanish.

Series Eight, Contracts, 1906-1915, contains six contracts delineating real estate, mining, and business transactions. Included with the contracts is a 1906 land sale contract between Campbell and Tucson Farms Company.

Series Nine, Court Proceedings, 1912-1917, 1927, includes diverse legal documents from eighteen court cases addressing such legal topics as guardianship, financial suits, property rights, and estate distribution. Three of the documents relate to cases tried in New York, Oregon, and Kansas courts.

Series Ten, Deeds, 1909-1927, contains nine bargain and sale deeds, one mining deed, one warranty deed, and two quitclaim deeds, with related correspondence. Four of the deeds pertain to property owned by Campbell, and five deeds involve land owned by Lupe D. Ronstadt.

Series Eleven, Incorporations, 1913-1916, consists of incorporation documents for Carney Consolidated Mining Company and for San Rafael Copper Mining & Smelting Company.

Series Twelve, Leases, 1913-1920, consists of three tenant leases of houses owned by Campbell, three business property leases, and an unspecified assignment of lease.

Series Thirteen, Legal Cases, 1887, 1912-1928, consists of correspondence and a variety of legal documents relating to cases in which Campbell served as legal counsel. These include both specific court cases and files representing the incorporation and legal operation of several mining, cattle, irrigation, or business enterprises. Cases of note include the Baca Float No. 3 (f.59-65), Casa Grande Valley Water Users Association (f.69-75), the Hunt-Campbell election dispute (f.89), the Otero family farms in Tubac (f.100-107), and the Zepeda family cattle business (f.76, 123-128).

Series Fourteen, Miscellaneous Legal Documents, 1909-1928, contains diverse legal documents covering a variety of business, mining, and real estate topics. Among the notable documents is Campbell's oath of office as Regent of the University of Arizona.

Series Fifteen, Mortgages, 1914-1921, consists of six mortgages including mortgages for the Independent Order of Odd Fellows, John H. Campbell, F. Ronstadt Company, Pace Hay and Grain Company, and the Poso Verde cattle Company.

Series Sixteen, Partnerships, 1913-1915, contains four partnership documents, including articles of co-partnership for a blacksmith business, Pace Hay and Grain Company, and a Mexican cattle partnership; and a dissolution of partnership for Porter, Williams, Beyea Company.

Series Seventeen, Powers of Attorney, 1911-1916, consists of eight documents which assign power of attorney in cases of land lease or sale. mining leases, legal and contractual representation and financial transactions.

Series Eighteen, Wills, 1907-1926, contains twenty-four wills, including the will of John H. Campbell and the estate settlement of his first wife, Lena Estelle Campbell.

Subgroup Three, Financial Records, 1903-1926, consists of Campbell's income and property tax records, 1914-1925; three daybooks recording clients' fees and expenses, 1903-1905, 1912-1916, 1915-1926; financial statements for Kingan & Campbell, Kingan Campbell & Connor, and Kingan Campbell Connor & Darnell, 1918-1926; clients' bills, 1913-1917; personal receipts, 1911-1917; and miscellaneous financial records which include statements from the Santa Rita Hotel and the Old Pueblo Club, receipt and promissory notes made out to other individuals.

Subgroup Four, Certificates, 1903-1924, includes civic and stock certificates which document Campbell's nomination as presidential elector, memberships on the Pima County Selective Service Board and in the 100 Club, and investments in oil, mining, and the Tucson Country Club.

Subgroup Five, Printed Materials, 1912-1925, includes the annual report of Western States Securities Company, 1918; news stories about the California community property law and "Lawyer's Necktie Bursts in Flame While He Argues;" editorials regarding a vacancy in the Arizona judgeship and the Federal Judge election (ca. 1913); a biographical sketch from Who's Who in Arizona, Vol. 1, 1913; "Digest of Federal Statutes Relating to Presidential Electors and their Duties," 1925; and miscellaneous law announcements, invitations, and greetings cards, 1915-1917.

Subgroup Six, Miscellany, 1925-1927 & undated, contains Frederick G. Nave's Arizona Bar Examination notes, 1925-1927; the February 15, 1927 issue of "The Law Student"; and notes relating to legal examinations and unidentified legal cases.

The John Henry Campbell Collection was an anonymous gift to the Arizona Historical Society, ca. 1935.
