HARBINE, SARAH
DIARY, 1923

DESCRIPTION

The collection contains one handwritten diary by Sarah Harbine from 1923. The diary briefly describes her life in Tucson. The entries do not have much detail, other than who she visited with, what she bought, what housework she did and the general health and well being of friends and family.

1 box, .25 linear feet

BIOGRAPHICAL NOTE

All that can be determined about Sarah Harbine is from the Tucson City Directories. She was the widow of J. T. Harbine and seems to have had two daughters (who are mentioned repeatedly in the diary), Anita and Amelia. She first appeared in the City Directory in 1912 and last in 1928.
