

Dannielle (Dolly) Patterson is a life-long resident of Apache County who has a passion for preserving and sharing history. She has served as a librarian at the local family history center, currently serves on the Board of the Apache County Historical Society Museum in St. Johns, and is a full-time employee of the Apache County Library District as their network administrator. She holds a Masters in Network and Communications Management and enjoys using her technical skills to make local historical information available online. She is the project manager of The Apache County Digital History Alliance and is in the process of creating a local digital history database hosted by the library district and in partnership with other entities and individuals in the county. In her spare time she enjoys painting, spending time with her family, working in her yard and garden, and taking photos of the beautiful scenery of the White Mountains and surrounding area which she loves.
