

Here are a few examples of how your generous donations have helped in recent months:

More than 500 students participate in National History Day in Arizona, creating projects on historic, cultural, and social topics.

The Gallery of Natural History displays precious rocks and minerals at the AHS Museum at Papago Park in Tempe.

AHS Collections acquires and preserves rare historic quilts (Detail from Goldie Tracy Richmond quilt).

AHS Library and Archives creates and hosts educational programs, tours, and projects (Here high school students link Hispanic heritage through archaeology).

Community events and activities at all AHS museums provide entertaining opportunities to learn. (Seen here: hand-bell performance at the Sanguinetti House Gardens in Yuma.)

Over 7,000 adults and children have viewed Above and Beyond: Arizona and the Medal of Honor, a statewide exhibit created by AHS in partnership with Sharlot Hall Museum.

Gregg Cabin at the AHS Pioneer Museum in Flagstaff will be utilized as programming space.
