community and its designation as Arizona Territory, which led to the founding of that region. And closer to home, miners sought gold near Prescott, which set in motion a gold rush that changed the course of history. The erosion of Confederate strength in favor of union victory at Chattanooga and Vicksburg, and raids by Forrest and Quantrill, were significant events in the Civil War. Looking back to 1863 from our vantage point, we can see how the Emancipation Proclamation took effect. On February 24, 150 years ago, President Lincoln signed legislation that created Arizona Territory, one month after it was officially designated. The journal of Arizona History clearly shows the inexorable progression of events that led to the formation of Arizona Territory.

Let’s Make History!
Dear Members & Friends:

In the past year, I have been honored to serve as your president of the Arizona Historical Society for the second time. As Arizona moves into its second century, it has been my pleasure to serve as president of the Arizona Historical Society. As we celebrate our centennial anniversary as a volunteer organization and others with an interest in Arizona history, the Arizona Historical Society has worked with the Arizona Historical Society to preserve and revitalize Arizona's history. The Arizona Historical Society hosted a "conclave" of historians, curators, and other educational institutions. The efforts highlighted above at the Arizona Historical Society continued in FY 2012-13. The Arizona Historical Society revenues declined significantly in FY 2011-12, the AHS appropriations tied to the state's centennial anniversary. However, these decreases were offset by payment ($1.1 million). Donations and contributions from the rent rolls by the state legislature were $434,300.

Many thanks and regards,

Michael T. Ryan
