State Bar Association Papers
1900 - 1989*DESCRIPTION

This collection consists of two ledgers and a series of official documents, correspondence, treasury reports, and newspaper clippings highlighting the careers of various members of the Arizona State Bar Association, with the bulk of the collection falling between the 1950's and 1980's. Of particular interest to Arizona Territorial researchers is a pamphlet entitled "The Arizona Bar-From Individualism to Integration," which details the history of the Arizona State Bar prior to its official creation by the Arizona State Legislature in 1933. One of the ledgers also contains information from this time period, namely Arizona State Bar meeting minutes from 1900 to 1905. Treasury reports from the 1930's and a membership roster dated from the 1940's provide additional background information. The rest of the collection consists of a series of folders, each detailing a particular member of the Arizona State Bar. These folders contain admission documents, correspondence between the individual and the state bar, and newspaper clippings related to important events in the individual's life. Of particular interest are folders relating to local personages such as the Udall and the DeConcini families, as well as folders detailing the careers of Supreme Court Justices Sandra Day O'Connor and William Rehnquist.

18 Boxes, 19 linear ft.

HISTORICAL NOTE

The Arizona State Bar Association was created as an official entity in 1933, although it has been around in some form since 1895. Prior to the formation of the state bar, lawyers applied for recognition directly to the territorial, then state district courts. After the recognition of the state bar by the legislature, the State Bar became a semi-public entity, and membership in the bar was required in order to practice law in the State of Arizona.
