BIOGRAPHICAL NOTE: This collection contains items primarily about Thomas A. Goodnight and information on the famous trailblazer and rancher, Colonel Charles Goodnight.

Thomas Goodnight was born July 3, 1905 in Rouse, Colorado and graduated from the University of Montana. He started in banking as a teller in Park City, Montana. In 1928, he moved to Arizona where he joined the Phoenix National Bank. After serving in World War II, he continued in the banking industry and rose in the ranks to become a vice president in administration. He is credited with having the first drive-in window in banking. He retired from Valley National Bank (formerly Phoenix National Bank) in 1969 and died in 1983.

Thomas was an avid horse lover and owned Rancho de Buenos Noches in north Phoenix where he bred palominos. He shared ownership of the horse Cream of Wheat, a palomino sire. He was married to Gladys Marley Goodnight and had a son named Thomas.

Colonel Charles Goodnight and Thomas Goodnight were related through marriage only. In 1927, the 91 year old Charles married the 26 year old Corinne. In 1929, Charles died. Thomas' sister started corresponding with Charles Goodnight because of their mutual surnames and a friendship grew. Because of the relationship, Corinne came into possession of many of Charles' documents which were then passed down to Thomas upon his sister's death. Charles was a rancher and blazed the Goodnight-Loving Trail; later one of Southwest's most heavily used cattle trails. He is also often credited with the invention of the chuckwagon. The majority of Charles Goodnight's records reside at the Panhandle-Plains Historical Museum located in Canyon, TX.
