BIOGRAPHICAL NOTE
As University of Arizona anthropology professor, assistant to Secretary of the Interior Stewart Udall, and associate commissioner for the Bureau of Indian Affairs, Jim Officer researched, wrote and taught about contemporary American Indian issues and the history of Hispanics in Arizona.

In 1950, he worked as an intern at the U.S. State Dept. in Washington, D.C. then spent two years in the diplomatic corps in Santiago, Chile. Officer earned his doctorate from the University of Arizona. He served as Associate Commissioner for the Bureau of Indian Affairs from 1961 to 1967, then was appointed as special assistant to Secretary of State Stewart Udall from 1967 to 1968. During his tenure at the B.I.A., Officer helped organize, and then supervised, the Office of Tribal Operations, the unit which does staff research on Indian claims and other legal problems related to such matters as tribal recognition and enrollment. Appointed U.S. representative to the Inter-American Indian Institute in 1966 by Secretary of State Dean Rusk, Jim Officer served until 1979.

In 1969, Officer returned to the University of Arizona as a professor of anthropology and coordinator of international programs. From 1971 to 1977, he also directed the University of Arizona’s Summer School in Guadalajara, Mexico. He was Senior Fulbright Professor in 1979 at the Catholic University in Santiago, Chile where he also researched the Mapuches.

Throughout his career, he was interested in the history of Hispanics in Arizona during the Mexican period of Arizona’s history. His book, Hispanic Arizona, was published in 1986. He was frequently asked to speak before local organizations about Arizona history. He also served on many local boards relating to his interests.

SCOPE AND CONTENT NOTE

Correspondence, manuscripts and other materials primarily from Jim Officer’s association with the Bureau of Indian Affairs and from his research interests and projects relating to early Arizona history and Tucson Hispanics. Correspondence, speeches and reports are present concerning Federal Indian policy in the 1960s and 1970s, a period in which governance responsibilities were being shifted from the Federal government to the tribal entities. Materials are also present relating to land and water issues of Arizona tribes.

Jim Officer wrote many articles, papers, and reviews about Indian issues, Hispanics, Hispanic Arizona history, and Tucson topics. He also collected many manuscripts from other researchers in his fields of interest. Specific areas of interest to him include the Apache Mansos (Tame) in early Tucson, mining in Hispanic Arizona, and Hispanic genealogy. He also compiled research on Tucson’s power structure, Hispanics clubs and organizations, and Hispanic household surveys.

SERIES DESCRIPTION

SUBGROUP 1: INDIAN

SERIES 1: INTER-AMERICAN INDIAN INSTITUTE, 1961-1980

Correspondence, speeches, and reports from Officer’s association with the Inter-American Indian Institute (I.I.I.), an organization of government representatives from Western hemisphere countries concerned with solving problems affecting indigenous populations. The materials relate to policy, administrative matters, and the Inter-American Indian Conference, Quito, Ecuador, 1964. Correspondents include Alfonso Villas Rojas, Miguel León-Portilla, Gonzalo Aguirre Beltrán, Sodi Morales, Gonzalo Rubio Orbe, Dave Warren and the U.S. State Dept. A summary of the United States’ involvement with the organization can be found in folder 38.

Correspondence, speeches, reports, government publications, and manuscripts; most resulting from Officer’s work as Associate Commissioner including his service on the Rufus Review Panel (nuclear test site evaluation) in Alaska. Some materials relating to self-determination and trust responsibility were collected by Officer in the mid-1970s. There are also materials about the B.I.A. including a 1961 report by Jim Officer and Bill King prepared for Stewart Udall and Bill King’s review of Alvin Josephy’s 1969 study of the Bureau of Indian Affairs.

Correspondence, memos, phone logs, speeches, press releases, and reports mostly resulting from Officer’s work as Special Assistant to Secretary of the Interior Stewart Udall from 1967 to 1968. There is correspondence between Officer and Udall and speeches by both. There are also materials about issues affecting Arizona reservations during this time. These include land and irrigation issues of the Colorado River Indian tribes, and issues of the Fort McDowell Mohave-Apache and Salt River Pima-Maricopa communities mostly relating to the proposed Orme Dam.
SERIES 4: JIM OFFICER WRITINGS, 1958-1995

Includes interviews of Officer about Indian issues as well as manuscripts of articles, conference papers, speeches, and book reviews written by Jim Officer and chiefly concerned with federal policy toward American Indians.

This series consists of writings by others, research notes, printed materials, government documents, reports and correspondence. These materials were mostly created after Officer’s government service ended even though many are related to Federal Indian policy. The series is divided into three groups: Indians by subject (materials about a topic but not related to a specific place or tribe), Indians by place (related to a specific location), and Indians by tribe (related to a specific community). Highlights include chronologies and summaries of legislation, Claims Commission awards, and Federal Indian relationships; Arizona agricultural research; and manuscripts about Arizona Indian communities including the Pima, Tohono O’odham, and Tonto Apaches.

SUBGROUP 2: ARIZONA HISTORY

Manuscripts and research by Jim Officer and others on a variety of post-1856 Arizona topics. Includes material on corridos, maquiladores, and research concerning Hispanics in Arizona.

SERIES 7: HISPANIC ARIZONA (PRE-1856), 1752-1995

Includes manuscripts and research by Jim Officer and others concerning aspects of Arizona history before 1856. Topics include Juan Bautista Anza, Apaches Mansos of Tucson, forty-niners in Arizona, mining, missions, Alphonse Pinart, land, and presidios and towns. Also includes the typescript copy and related correspondence for Officer’s book Hispanic Arizona. Highlights of this series include research on the Apache Mansos of Tucson, correspondence and research about the location of the Mine with the Iron Door, and research on Sonoran Missions.

SERIES 8: HISPANIC GENEALOGY, 1965-1996

Includes genealogical research and correspondence with descendants of pioneer Hispanic families including the Aguirre, Ainza, Elias, Otero, Pacheco, and Sosa families.

SERIES 9: HISPANICS – TUCSON, 1940-1990

Chiefly research about Hispanic activities in Tucson; research on men’s and women’s clubs includes the names of clubs, types of activities, number of members, and nature of membership. Two other projects were the Mexican-American Household Surveys and the Mexican Project. The household surveys, arranged by family, are concerned with family structure, extended family relationships, and involvement in organizations and politics. The Mexican Project, also arranged by family, concerns household composition, membership in organizations, labor history, business ownership, education and health.

SERIES 10: TUCSON, 1950-1996

Research, writings and projects about Tucson people and places including an 1958-1960 project “Power in the Old Pueblo” which used interviews to analyze the local power structure. There are also materials about preserving the historic Presidio site and other historic buildings. There are manuscripts on various topics, mostly by local historians, and there is Jim Officer’s research including work with the Oury property record.

SERIES 11: CARD INDEXES, 1767-1959

Various card indexes compiled by Officer, many relating to Hispanic Tucsonans, and most created in the 1950s.

SUBGROUP 3: GENERAL FILES

SERIES 12: CORRESPONDENCE, 1957-1995

Correspondence with anthropologists and others about current research and projects. Correspondents include Henry F. Dobyns, Don Garate, Philleo Nash, Vine Deloria, and Bernard Fontana.

Writings on general topics by Jim Officer and others including tributes to Philleo Nash and Edward Spicer.

SERIES 14: PROJECTS, 1950-1987

Various grant proposals, and research notes on miscellaneous topics including work on Kino’s canonization.

SERIES 15: ORGANIZATIONS, 1951-1996

Correspondence, minutes and reports from local organizations that Officer belonged to or served as a board member. Mostly material from his service on the Arizona Historical Society board and board of the Southwest Parks and Monuments Association.

Primarily manuscript drafts and publications by local historians.

SERIES 17: CLASS MATERIALS

Lectures, handouts, reference material, correspondence and student lists from classes Officer taught at the University of Arizona, Catholic University in Chile, and the Universidad de Sonora.
SERIES 18: PHOTOGRAPHS, ca. 1870-1996

Photographs and slides in three categories: one set was obtained by Officer from libraries and used in his publications, another contains photographs of Jim Officer and groups he has worked with at the Bureau of Indian Affairs and other places, while the third set consists of slides taken by Officer for his class lectures, SMRC tours, and other projects. The photographs used in his publications are presented for research purposes only. Patrons will need to contact the appropriate repository to reproduce them. The slides are mostly photographs of Tucson and Sonora, Mexico in the 1960s to the 1990s. They include images of Tucson barrios, lowriders, and Spanish missions.
