BIOGRAPHICAL NOTE: E. D. Newcomer (1896 – 1973) arrived in Arizona from Denver in the late 1910's for reasons of health. He became Arizona's first full-time press photographer when he joined the staff of the Arizona Republican, forerunner to the Arizona Republic, in Phoenix in 1928. He stayed in that position for forty years. One of Newcomer's first assignments with the Republican was an aerial pictorial survey of the state, conducted in 1928. He and pilot, Bill Kingsley, flew throughout the state on a tour that lasted 40 days and resulted in 165 photographs. Newcomer's professional work is supplemented by photographs from trips to the Hopi and Navajo reservations in Northern Arizona and to the Baja Peninsula of Mexico. His work has not only appeared on the pages of the Arizona Republic but also in exhibits at the Heard Museum in Phoenix and throughout the country.

SCOPE AND CONTENT NOTE:

E. D. Newcomer's photographs include images of: people, cities and towns, Native Americans, and military subjects, primarily in Arizona, along with cities and towns in Mexico, from 1926 to 1970. The photographs are black and white and taken with a large- or medium format camera. The collection also includes a negatives, small amount of color transparencies. A minimal amount of manuscript material, primarily documenting the photographs, is also available.

The E. D. Newcomer photographic collection is significant for its images of Arizona and Mexico spanning more than forty years. The collection is particularly valuable for its early aerial views of Arizona and for its images of Native Americans in the northern part of the state. The aerial photographs, taken from a biplane in 1928, cover the entire state of Arizona and are some of the earliest aerial views of the state known to exist. These images can be located under the series identified as Aerials, 1928. The images of Native Americans include life on the Hopi and Navajo Reservations as early as 1926. Some of these images were captured during extended stays at the Hubbell Trading Post and at Goulding's Lodge, as well as during visits in the homes of Native Americans themselves. These photographs are found in the series identified as Subjects – Indians.

In his position with the Arizona Republic, Newcomer took extensive photographs of cities and towns throughout Arizona. These can be located under the series identified as Arizona Places. Additionally, Newcomer took many photographs of mines, ranch life, early airplane transportation in the state, and businesses, including many images of the agricultural industry located in Phoenix during the middle part of the twentieth century. These can be located under the Subject series. Further, Newcomer's photographs of people include, Presidents Calvin Coolidge and Franklin D. Roosevelt; sports figures Knute Rockne and Jack Dempsey; entertainers, Will Rogers, Jack Benny, and Eddie Albert; along with criminals, Winnie Ruth Judd and Eva Dugan.

Also of note are Newcomer's military photographs, including extensive images of both the Arizona Air and Army National Guards, the majority from the 1950's and 1960's. These can be located under the series identified as Military and Aeronautics.

Finally, of note are Newcomer's photographs of Mexico. These images consist mostly of life in coastal towns and cities, but also include Nogales a missions in Sonora. These photographs can be located under the series identified as Mexico.

Note that not all negatives have corresponding prints. There was an early effort to print and make available those negatives deemed most significant. However, there are still many more negatives that have not been printed.
