DESCRIPTION

This photo album consists of images from Mexico in the period 1900 to 1910. Photographs show city street scenes, domestic activities, and people in pre-revolutionary Mexico. Many of the images were manufactured by professional photographers and carry their stamp. Activities include tourists visiting ancient temple ruins, street scenes in Puebla, Mexico, city plazas, village market activities, gardens, and views of landscapes around villages. Additional images show the termination of a bullfight and skeletons found in a trip to a cemetery outside Mexico City by Newman and Kuster.
